2,000 left homeless

Johnstown flood kills 32 persons

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Flood waters from swollen mountain creeks have receded, leaving many persons dead, thousands homeless and a devastated landscape in the valleys around this southwestern Pennsylvania steel town.

Civil Defense officials today said there were 32 confirmed dead. They had earlier reported 37 dead. Officials blamed the mistake on the difficulties of communicating with the flood-stricken area.

There were widespread reports of persons missing and presumed dead, but communications were erratic and rescue efforts were delayed by deep water.

Civil Defense officials estimated 2,000 persons were homeless in Cambria County alone. It was not known how many were dislodged elsewhere.

It was the third major flood in 88 years in Johnstown, whose name became synonymous with disaster after the Johnstown Flood of 1889 killed 2,200 people.

Then, as in this week's tragedy and in the flood of March 17, 1936, when 20 people died, the steep green valleys channeled mountain runoff into the Conemaugh River and Little Stony Creek and created sudden, killing thrusts of churning water.

In the 1889 flood, the earthen South Fork dam broke 14 miles upstream, and the water — with nowhere to go to vent its power — was still a raging wall of death when it arrived in Johnstown 57 minutes later.

"All it happened so fast, too fast, and then it seemed like it would never end," said pregnant Elaine Mitchell, who narrowly escaped the high water Wednesday.

A temporary morgue was set up at East Hills Elementary School just outside the city.

The flooding struck in Bedford, Cambria, Clearfield, Indiana, Jefferson, Somerset and Westmoreland counties. About 8.5 inches of rain fell between about 9 p.m. Tuesday and 4 a.m. Wednesday.

Crawford County, some 100 miles to the northwest of the Johnstown area, suffered flash flooding and heavy damage when it received about four inches of rain in the same period.

The Laurel Run Dam north of Johnstown broke and washed out 10 houses downstream. At least 25 persons were reported missing in West Taylor Township.

Carl Thomas, 59, an asphalt plant superintendent, said he had found the body of his brother-in-law, but his sister, brother and sister-in-law, their four children and a granddaughter were still missing.

Thomas' 80-year-old mother had a stroke prior to the flood. "We don't know how to tell her," he said.

Gov. Milton Shapp toured the area by helicopter with U.S. Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., and declared an extreme state of emergency.

Many victims spent Wednesday night in emergency centers set up in fire halls and college dormitories.

"We're putting people wherever we can find a place for them," said L.B. Towsley, a member of the state Civil Defense Council.

The rain came from a storm that hung over the area as people slept.

"That thunderstorm didn't move last night. I watched it sit there on the radar for six or seven hours," said a spokesman for the National Weather Service.

By nightfall, the swollen streams had returned to their banks and cleanup operations appeared ready to begin.

Shapp and Heinz asked the White House for federal disaster relief.

"The damage is devastating," Heinz said. "It is easily in excess of $100 million with roads destroyed and trucks tossed around like matchsticks."

Two National Guard battalions were activated to help with the rescue and cleanup. One of their first missions was to stop looting in Johnstown.

"Some of the looters swam across streets to get to the merchandise first," said Mary Zellar, 31, a Johnstown Tribune-Democrat copy editor.

Authorities said the looting subsided after Mayor Herbert Pfuhl Jr. directed police to shoot looters if necessary.

CUSTOMERS were lined up outside local stores Wednesday to take advantage of the opening of special sales by merchants in conjunction with the Old Fashioned Bargain Days celebration.

A slack in the crowds was noted in the afternoon as the mercury soared in the high 90s.

Meanwhile, customers have been lining up to take advantage of The Record-Herald's special classified advertisement promotion.

Over 120 persons have placed ads in the first three days of the promotion which offers customers the opportunity to run ads for three days at the regular price and get three days free of charge.

Area residents still have two days in which to get in on the promotion.

Another such monograph is Brunswick deserter-immigrants of the American Revolution.

Another, by Max von Eelking, is a translation from the German. This is the German Allied Troops in the North American War of Independence, 1776-1783. It's 360 pages include a list of the officers of the Hessian Corps serving under Generals Howe, Clinton and Carleton, as well as some portraits. CRAFT SHOW — Patrons check over goods on sale at the Farmers Market and craft show which opened this morning on N. Main Street between Market and Temple streets. The Farmers Market and craft show, which features all hand-made goods and fresh produce, is an annual feature of the Old Fashioned Bargain Days celebration in Washington C.H. Both will continue through Friday.

Hundreds of items on display

The lazy warmth of the summer sun may help you drift back into the Old Fashioned Bargain Days as you stroll past the hundreds of handmade crafts and homecooked delicacies on display in the Farmer's Market along N. Main Street between W. Market and W. Temple streets today and Friday.

The Farmer's Market began Thursday at 11 a.m. as part of the annual Old Fashioned Bargain Days celebration in Washington C.H. Shortly after the sidewalk merchants set out their wares, local residents busied themselves oohing and aahing over the displays and buying up the homebaked goods on sale.

One elderly woman hurried up to a table about 11:30 a.m., asking the seller by name if she had any of her homemade bread. "I did," the merchant-woman replied, "but it's all sold."

Among the items on sale in the market, smart shoppers may find that one gift idea that will satisfy a fussy aunt or, more likely, something for their own homes. Macrame plant hangers and wall hangings, including one of a three-foot owl are popular items among the other crafts. One ladies' cooperative effort turned out wall hangings of tree bark showing walnut shell-owls sitting on branches of tiny dried flowers that one of the group said, had to be placed with tweezers.

Crocheted baby booties, shawl, throw rugs, toilet roll holders, and dolls with pop-out faces; broom dolls made of brightly colored yarn for those hard to reach cobwebs; flower arrangements; some made with twirled, colored pipe cleaners, some situated in little scenes in small wooden crates, and some with dried flowers attached to scrub boards; as well as straw dolls, aprons and pot holders are all among the hand crafted goods.

Fresh produce, such as squash, peppers, cucumbers and zucchini lead off the foods on sale, which include scores of cookies, brownies, cakes and ethics committee to discuss arrangements for taking the new job. The wealthy lawyer said he would serve without pay.

He is replacing Philip A. Lacovara, a former deputy Watergate prosecutor who quit last week after a dispute with Flynt.

Flynt said Jaworski's only requests were that the independence agreement be put in writing and that his law partner, Peter White, be named as special deputy counsel.

Flynt also said he had satisfied himself that neither Jaworski nor his Washington law office have any clients or accounts that might present a conflict of interest with the Korean investigation.

But one committee member, Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y., said Jaworski's law firm had lobbied on Capitol Hill on one bill several weeks ago. He said he wants more information on other lobbying by Jaworski's firm.

Jaworski said the promises of independence in the new post would be made official in a congressional resolution before he "came out of the woodwork, so to speak" to take the new job.

"There are a lot of reasons for selling more ice now, but the main one is still the temperature," said Dusing, who 10 years ago sold snack items and soft drinks to supplement his ice income.

During summer months, the ice manufacturing runs on a 24-hour basis. While temperatures outside climb into the 90s, workers are dressed in thick winter coats, army boots and two pairs of gloves to bag ice in 20-degree temperatures in the company's storage room.

"At first my friends said I wouldn't like to bag ice, but now I just laugh when I hear about them doing construction work out there in that heat," said John Gross. "You can sit there in the cold room looking outside at the heat, but it's always winter inside."

On the tape Nixon was heard agreeing with aides that the FBI should be given a false story to steer it away from campaign contributions that were to prove the Watergate burglars were Nixon campaign workers.

Deadline for death today for priests

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A deadline for death arrived today for 50 Jesuit priests ordered to leave the country by a secret right-wing terrorist group.

The so-called White Warriors Union, accusing them of "Communist subversion," threatened to kill all of El Salvador's 50 Jesuits "immediately and systematically" today if their ultimatum was not met.

But there were no reports of violence early today, and some observers speculated that the underground organization, reportedly linked with government security agencies, would not act immediately.

Patrols of police and submachine gun-armed soldiers were increased Wednesday night at churches, a seminary and the Jesuit-run university in this capital city after the military government of President Carlos Humberto Romero vowed to combat terrorism "from the right or the left."

The Jesuits, who also operate three high schools, said they would do their normal work routine today despite the threats. It was the first day of final exams for their 5,000 students.

"We are not afraid," said one priest. But for the past four days they have worn nondescript civilian clothes, having put away their black suits and Roman collars. And all Jesuits in San Salvador met in a secret location Wednesday night, presumably to discuss a common strategy as the deadline approached.

Carter-Begin talks close

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin are in agreement on a Mideast peace conference to be held this fall and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance will personally seek Arab participation.

Begin concluded his talks with Carter on Wednesday after proposing a peace plan that would provide for Israeli withdrawals from some former Arab lands. The two leaders also agreed to a Geneva peace conference, to be held in October, and Begin received a partially positive response to his requests for new U.S. arms.

Some Arab capitals already have rejected the Begin peace formula and Carter said he would send Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to the Middle East on Aug. 1 to try to talk Egypt, Syria and Jordan into joining the Geneva conference.

Informed sources said the United States is expected to announce it is giving Israel about $100 million to fund mass-production of the Israeli-built Chariot tank, plus armed hydrofoils for its navy and other unspecified military hardware.

But the sources said Washington gave Israel no final answer on its request for permission to co-produce F16 jet planes at its aviation industries near Tel Aviv. The Israelis badly want such a deal, but the sources said that at best the United States would sell Israel about 100 F16s direct from U.S. manufacturers.

Begin disclosed the peace plan he brought to Carter, telling a news conference that it consisted of:

— Readiness to negotiate with Egypt, Jordan, Syria and possibly Lebanon for full peace treaties without pre-conditions. By pre-conditions, said Begin, he meant Egypt's demand that Israel promise, before talks begin, to vacate all captured land.

— Establishment of joint committees, each consisting of Israel and one Arab state, to actually negotiate the treaties.

— Exclusion of the Palestine Liberation Organization, "whose aim is to destroy Israel," from negotiations, but to allow Palestinian delegates to join a Jordanian delegation, provided they are not PLO members.

— Readiness to negotiate on neutral ground outside Geneva, or indirectly through a U.S. mediator, if the Arabs were unable to attend Geneva without the PLO.

Begin's formula differed from that of previous Israeli governments in that he refused to say whether he would offer to trade captured Arab land for peace.

Unofficial reports here and in Jerusalem say Begin would exchange parts of the Sinai Desert and Golan Heights for peace treaties with Egypt and Syria, but would hold onto the West Bank of the Jordan River while giving its 700,000 Arab residents autonomy.

This clashes with the U.S. view that Israel must give up virtually all captured Arab land in exchange for peace.

But Carter refused to restate this approach, saying the time had come "to be reticent" and allow the adversaries to negotiate among themselves.

Consumer prices rise again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher costs for food and a broad range of services pushed June consumer prices up six-tenths of 1 per cent, matching the previous month's boost in prices, the government reported today.

The rise was a disappointment to government economists who had hoped some moderation in consumer prices would follow a slowdown in wholesale price hikes in May and a sharp wholesale price drop in June.

Retail food prices, which climbed seven-tenths of 1 per cent in May, rose by eight-tenths of 1 per cent in June and marked the sixth straight month of sharp increases in the cost of food.

The government planned to release a second report on the nation's economic health later today and it was expected to be more encouraging. A preliminary estimate from the Commerce Department indicated the economy had another strong quarter, with the Gross National Product growing in the April-June period at about the same rate as the first quarter's 6.9 per cent rate.

Wholesale prices — a precursor of costs a consumer eventually faces — fell seven-tenths of a per cent in June after several months of steep increases. The drop was the first since last August and was largely the result of a 6.3 per cent decline in prices of farm products.

Changes in the wholesale food prices are usually reflected at grocery counters within a few weeks but this has not been the case so far for the June decline. The Labor Department said a large part of the June increase in retail food prices was caused by higher prices for processed foods such as dairy products, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, sugar, bakery products and coffee.

While the six-tenths per cent increase in consumer prices was relatively steep for one month, it was less than the eight-tenths of 1 per cent rise in April and January and the 1 per cent jump in February.

Over the past three months, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 8.1 per cent, down from the 10 per cent annual rate during the first quarter of the year.

The Labor Department said its Consumer Price Index last month stood at 181.8 per cent of its 1967 average, meaning that a marketbasket of goods and services which cost $100 ten years ago now cost $181.80 last month.

The Consumer Price Index is based on a selection of 400 different goods and services believed to represent the marketbasket of the average urban worker who heads a family of four.

In a separate report, the government said that real spendable earnings — after-tax earnings adjusted for inflation — increased 3.4 per cent in June, the largest monthly increase in two years.

The increase resulted from a change in tax deductions which lowered withholding rates effective June 1.

Over the year, real earnings rose 3.3 per cent as a result of both the reduction in taxes and a three-tenths of a per cent increase in weekly earnings over and above any inflationary increase in them.

Libyans, Egyptians in massive clash

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Libyan and Egyptian armored and air forces engaged in a massive clash along their desert border today, resulting in the destruction of 40 Libyan tanks and two planes, Cairo radio reported.

Israel radio also reported there was a battle. But Libya had no immediate comment on the reported fighting.

Cairo radio quoted a military spokesman as saying that 30 Libyan army trucks were destroyed and 12 members of the 9th Libyan armored division were taken prisoner along with 30 saboteurs.

Today's clash climaxed a series of border incidents in recent days.

Egypt has accused Libya of planting a series of bombs and conducting other sabotage in Egypt.

The two countries have contended for influence in the Arab world, leading to confrontations in Lebanon and the Horn of Africa.

Since the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, they have quarreled over how to approach that conflict. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has urged reconvening a Mideast conference in Geneva while Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy has opposed compromise with Israel.

Libya had no immediate comment on the reported fighting.

Israel radio's Mideastern affair analyst, Dob Yinon, reported earlier that fighting had broken out and Egypt had put warplanes into the battle. He did not cite sources.

The report said tension along the Egypt-Libya border escalated in the past few days and Egyptian planes bombed Libyan troops that had been brought up to defend the border.

The two nations massed troops at their border in the past but the confrontations had not led to large-scale fighting. An Israeli government source said the African country of Togo recently tried to mediate their dispute but was unsuccessful.

The two nations have differed over the Lebanese civil war and are currently competing for influence in the Sudan and Chad. News media in each country play up reports of internal troubles in the other and Egypt has repeatedly accused Libya of fomenting disorder in Egypt.

Mrs. Dorothy C. Jett — Services were conducted at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Washington Cemetery by the Rev. Steven M. Powell for Mrs. Dorothy C. Jett, formerly of 1012 Lakeview Ave.

Mrs. Jett, a former employee of the Aeronautical Products, Inc., died Monday.

Carl Weischenberg, 33, a West German, who officials said is awaiting trial in his own country on charges of high treason and is now living in Freeport, in the Bahamas, and Carl John Heiser, 32, of Highland Beach, Fla., were arrested Wednesday at Fort Lauderdale International Airport as Weischenberg prepared to board a plane for Freeport.

They were formally charged with "acting as agents of East Germany and the Soviet Union without prior notification to the Secretary of State," a charge less severe than espionage because the government wants to expedite the case, a knowledgeable source said.

"When you have a foreign national leaving the country you want to act quickly," the source said.

The charge carries a fine of $5,000 and up to 10 years in jail.

Heiser and Weischenberg were ordered held without bond after a brief hearing before U.S. Magistrate Peter Palermo in Miami. Another hearing was scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Daniel Ennis of Miami says Weischenberg and 11 other persons are awaiting trial in West Germany on charges of high treason involving sale of West German data processing materials to Soviet bloc nations.

The FBI said Weischenberg had offered Heiser $250,000 for components of the cruise missile, a piloted weapon which can fly a pre-programmed route to its target at extremely low levels. It

Payton resigns post at Huntington Bank

Kenneth A. Payton, senior vice president and senior loan officer at the Huntington Bank of Washington C.H., has resigned the positions to accept a post with a Hillsboro banking institution.

The 44-year-old Payton resigned from the positions at the Huntington Bank in Washington C.H. effective today.

No successor will be named at this time, according to Ronald K. Cornwell, chairman of the Huntington Bank's board of directors.

"He's been a valuable and efficient employee ever since I've been on the board," said Cornwell.

Payton, 6065 Miami Trace Road, will join the Hillsboro Bank and Savings Co. effective August 1 as first vice president.

The Hillsboro Bank and Savings Co., headed by president Robert Hodson, has its main office and a branch location in Hillsboro with branch offices in Greenfield, Leesburg and Lynchburg.

Payton joined the Huntington Bank nine years ago when the institution was known as the Washington Savings Bank. He formerly was associated with the City Loan and Savings Co. before joining the Washington Savings Bank as senior loan officer. He has served as a senior vice president for the past five years.

Active in numerous school and community affairs, Payton is completing his second four-year term on the Fayette County Board of Education, serving twice as board president. Payton is presently vice president of the Great Oaks Joint Vocational School District board of education. He has been associated with the joint vocational school since the contingent from Clinton, Fayette and Highland counties joined in December 1971.

KENNETH A. PAYTON

In addition to serving as vice president of the 35-member board, Payton is chairman of the school district's administrative advisory committee.

A member of the taxation committee of the Ohio Bankers Association, Payton is a member of various Masonic organizations here and serves as an advisor to the Community Improvement Corporation which works toward the development of new industry in Washington C.H. He is also a member of the Fayette County Memorial Hospital Foundation board.

His wife, Patricia, is a registered nurse and kindergarten teacher in the New Holland and Good Hope elementary schools. They have two children, Tom, who is employed at the Calmar Division plant here, and Tammy, who will be attending Ohio University this fall.

Teacher disaffection

In a survey the National Education Association asked teachers whether they would again choose teaching as a career if they could start afresh. Only 38 per cent said yes. The corresponding figure six years earlier had been 45 per cent. This reflects a troubling disaffection, apparently on the rise, among those most directly involved in educating American children.

This is seen also in other results of the study. The figures show that, while salaries are at record highs and contractual working conditions are the best in history, large numbers of experienced teachers are leaving the professions. Last year only 14.1 of all teachers had 20 years or more of experience; in 1961 the proportion was 27.6 per cent, almost twice as high. Another possible indicator of waning career commitment is that only 60 per cent of those questioned said they expected to stay in teaching until retirement.

The reasons for all this seem not to have been pinpointed. Seventeen per cent of the teachers, however, listed incompetent administration as one of the factors making it hard for them to work at top efficiency. Poor student attitudes and disciplinary problems also were cited by 17 per cent; 14 per cent spoke of a heavy work load.

Whatever the reasons, the growing disaffection among teachers is of concern to all who see the schools as one of the chief pillars of our society. Efforts should be made to identify the causes, and respond constructively.

This is an undertaking to be carried out mainly at the local level. It should enlist the collaboration of teachers, school boards and administrators, parents and others interested in improving our educational system.

So much for the politics of trust

"Don't listen to what we say. Watch what we do." The words, ascribed to Nixon's Attorney General John Mitchell, should be applied to the Carter Administration's military policy.

The B-bomber program has been scrubbed by the White House, with various reassurances that the cruise missile, a remarkable weapon that can travel for miles under the enemy's radar to a most accurate rendezvous with its target, made the manned bomber obsolete. Whether this is true or not (the neophyte must reflect that cruise missiles have to be launched from something, presumably including big bombers), the public should look with skepticism on Carter's implied promise to continue with uninhibited cruise missile development.

Businesses freed of costly paperwork

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is freeing millions of small businessmen from the requirements of time-consuming paperwork that cost an estimated $100 million a year.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration, whipping boy of business since its formation, announced Tuesday it no longer will require 3.4 million small businesses to comply with record-keeping and reporting requirements of the federal job, health and safety law.

For 1.5 million larger firms, paperwork requirements will be cut in half, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said at a news conference.

Marshall said that in addition to saving millions of dollars, the changes "will mean a lot to the thousands of small businessmen who face a mountain of federal paperwork."

The National Federation of Independent Business praised the government's announcement as "a giant step."

"We need much more of this in the federal government," said James D. McKeown, a spokesman for the organization. He said a typical small business now spends an average of one-half to one day a week filling out federal forms.

Despite the praise from one organization, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which represents mostly larger firms, said the changes don't go far enough. "We're disappointed because the changes still leave a lot of paperwork," a spokesman said.

Since Congress created OSHA in 1971, the agency's regulations have been criticized bitterly by the business community as costly, time-consuming, ineffective and harassing.

Marshall said the reduction of paperwork is in keeping with President Carter's goal to simplify government regulations without going back on an administration commitment to preserve the health and safety of American workers.

Marshall said that beginning in 1978 the country's business firms with 10 or fewer employees no longer will have to maintain complicated accident and illness records. However, he emphasized that they still are subject to the job health and safety law.

For the larger firms, the new procedures will replace three forms that now must be filled out with a single form which would use a "simple check-off procedure" for keeping a record of injuries and illnesses. The total number of entries would be reduced from 80 to 19.

Weather service predicts cool temps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nagging heat wave that has polluted air, destroyed crops and killed people and livestock in a 2,000-mile belt from the Atlantic Coast to the Rockies appears to be petering out.

The National Weather Service predicted a cooling trend today from the Great Lakes across to the central plains, where temperatures in the 90s and 100s have been recorded for more than a week. The Atlantic coast was not expected to be so lucky, with forecasters calling for continued hot weather at least into the weekend.

Rain was expected to provide partial relief in many sections of the heat belt.

But in western Pennsylvania, torrential rains flooded Johnstown, leaving at least 32 dead and about 41,000 residents homeless Wednesday.

Thunderstorms in the Estes Park, Colo., area flooded the Big Thompson River at several spots late Wednesday. Officials issued evacuation alerts.

The appointment, effective August 1, was announced by Robert Leavitt, director of development at Wilmington College.

Graf will be a member of Wilmington College's development staff, with specific assignments in seeking corporation, foundation, and government grants.

He has done graduate study at the Northwestern University Graduate School of Business, at Ohio State, and at the University of Dayton. He also has studied at the Dayton Art Institute.

Graf has taught at Ohio State University and served as an assistant football coach there under Paul Brown, Carroll Widdoes, and Paul Bixler, and with Pete Ankeney at the University of Dayton.

Only one not guilty in obscenity trial

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A federal court jury — using a different standard of obscenity than its predecessors — has found all but one defendant guilty in the obscenity trial centering around the movie "Deep Throat."

The result of the trial was similar to earlier proceedings in 1973 when a U.S. District Court panel found three men and two corporations guilty of interstate transportation of obscene material.

That conviction was overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court which ruled that the jury had used the wrong guidelines in determining obscenity.

A new trial was held and eight men and four women deliberated about three hours Wednesday before handing down their decision finding all but one defendant guilty.

Guilt on two counts of interstate transportation of obscene material and one count of conspiracy to commit interstate transportation of obscene material were Stanley Marks, former operator of the Cinema X theater in Newport, Ky., Guy Weir, Harry Mohney, of Durand, Mich., and the American Amusement Co.

The jury acquitted the American News Co. of all charges against it.

The charges were based on the showing of the movies "Deep Throat" and "Swing High." Judge Carl Rubin had earlier dismissed charges based on the showing of five preview films.

No date was set for sentencing in the case. All the defendants remained free on bond pending appeal.

"Setting the obscenity issue aside, I don't think the government produced enough evidence to show interstate transportation," said Andrew Denison, a defense attorney. "That portion of their case was hanging on a nail."

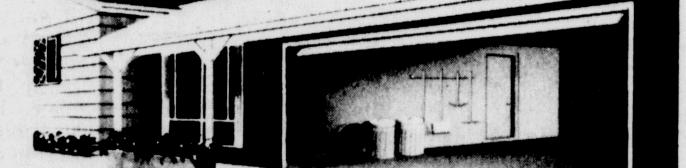

The Supreme Court ruled in the earlier case that the jury at that time had failed to use the proper guidelines in defining obscenity.

The Supreme Court ruled that standards established in a 1973 high court decision should not have been used. Those standards asked whether the work would appeal to prurient interests and whether the work lacked literary, artistic or scientific value.

The previous standards defined obscenity as material "utterly without redeeming social value."

When the railroads came to Ohio in the 1830's they played an unimportant part in the location of towns, for most of them had already been laid out by that time, and towns and cities determined the location of the railroads rather than the other way around. —AP

The Canadians are sending some of their weather south, providing a little relief to sweltering Ohioans.

A mass of cool air which built up over central Canada, the northern Plains and the upper Great Lakes was to begin moving into northern Ohio this morning and was expected to reach the Ohio River by late afternoon. There was a chance of thundershowers developing ahead of the front, particularly in the central and southern counties.

Highs today were forecast to reach around 80 along the Lake Erie shore to near 90 along the Ohio River. Skies will clear tonight and temperatures will drop into the 50s and low 60s.

Meanwhile, Cincinnati residents, who weathered a record cold winter this year, are currently suffering through the most polluted summer in city history.

Extended outlook for Ohio, Saturday through Monday: fair Saturday and Sunday and a chance of showers Monday. Lows in the 50s and low 60s Saturday, in the 60s Sunday and 70s Monday. Highs in the low to mid 80s Saturday and in the upper 80s and 90s Sunday and Monday.

Early morning temperatures around the nation ranged from 46 at Arcata, Calif., to 95 at Needles, Calif.

MR. and MRS. DAVID L. RITENOUR

NH Methodist Church setting

The New Holland United Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Kathy Ellen Jacobs and David Lee Ritenour. The marriage took place June 18 with the Rev. Richard McDowell performing the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jacobs Jr. of New Holland, and Mr. and Mrs. John Ritenour of Jeffersonville, are the parents of the bridegroom.

The sanctuary was accented with candelabra entwined with daisies and greenery, and bowls of yellow and peach marked the family pews.

Laura Wrightsel, organist, presented wedding songs preceding the marriage ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Jacobs chose a gown with wedding ring neckline, long sleeves, fitted bodice, and chapel length train. Her fingertip illusion veil fell from a crown of seed pearls edged with bridal lace, which also edged the hemline and train of the gown. She carried a cascade of Sonja roses and daisies with baby's breath.

The highlight of the ceremony was the lighting of the unity candle from the mothers' candles by the couple. The Lord's Prayer was sung as the couple were at the kneeling bench.

Kim Jacobs was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a sleeveless, cowl-neck floor-length gown of pale gold polyester. Bridesmaid Brenda Reinhart wore a floor-length gown of peach with long full sleeves. Lisa Reisinger the flower girl, wore a sleeveless floor length gown with white bodice and light blue skirt. The attendants carried long-stemmed pastel daisies with babies breath.

Philip Swigert served as best man for Mr. Ritenour, and Jeff Crabtree of Jeffersonville, and Brad Smith of Washington C.H. seated the wedding guests.

Mr. Jacobs chose a two-piece light blue polyester silk street length dress with which she combined white accessories. Mrs. Ritenour, the groom's mother, chose a two piece dress of mint green polyester and white accessories.

Hostesses for the reception held at the church were Susan Knecht, Kathleen Frazier and Debra Ann Frazier, Rebecca Sheridan, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book.

The new bride is a member of the 1978 graduating class of Miami Trace High School. She was employed at Frazier's Snack Shack in New Holland. Her husband, a 1976 MTHS graduate, is employed at Shio Stop 35, but will enter the US Air Force in September and will be stationed at Chanute AFB, Illinois.

The groom's parents were hosts for the rehearsal dinner held at the Terrace Lounge.

Mr. Whitaker scheduled by BPW Club

Mr. Carl Whitaker, Superintendent of the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation School, has been acquired as speaker for the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club to be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 26 at the Washington Country Club.

CARAWAY CHEESE GEMS

They're a cross between a biscuit and a muffin.

1 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons caraway seed
2 ounces grated (medium-fine) extra-sharp cheddar cheese (1/4 cup loosely packed)

1 large egg
1/2 cup sour cream

On wax paper, with a fork, stir together the flour, baking powder, soda, salt and caraway; stir in the cheese. In a medium mixing bowl beat the egg slightly; add the sour cream and beat to blend. Add the flour mixture; stir only until moistened and still lumpy. Spoon into buttered muffin-pan cups (each 2 1/2 by 1 inch and holding 1 3/4 cup), filling them almost full. Bake in a pre-heated 375-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — about 25 minutes. Loosen edges, remove and serve hot. Makes 6.

Salt tablets not way to beat heat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The way to handle the summer heat isn't to down a handful of salt tablets. You are much better off drinking a lot of plain water, says a specialist in the effects of hot weather on humans.

"We haven't used salt tablets at OSU for 10 years," Dr. Robert J. Murphy, Ohio State University team physician said Wednesday.

"Two salt tablets in eight ounces of water gives you the same proportion of fluid as you lose through the skin (through sweating). But we found that people who took two would take four or six, and you wind up taking sea water. And everyone knows that's bad."

"The key to prevention (of heat stroke) is copious amounts of water," Murphy said. "Drink plenty of fluids."

He noted that 90 OSU football players will down 100-150 gallons of water during a 90-minute practice in warm weather.

Murphy acknowledged that people do feel much worse, and are in much more danger of heat stroke, when the humidity is high.

"The body's ability to dissipate the heat through the skin is dependent on the humidity. If it is very humid, it is almost like having your skin in water. Evaporation becomes a problem and there is no way to dissipate the heat," Murphy said.

Consequently, "95 degrees here (where the humidity generally ranges from 50-70 per cent of saturation) can be devastating while 95 degrees in Phoenix with 10 per cent humidity is no problem," Murphy said. "When the temperature is between 80 and 90 degrees and the humidity is over 70 per cent, it can be dangerous," he said.

"From the standpoint of what happens (with heat stroke), it is caused by a water deficit in the body. The usual early symptoms are headache, weakness, muscle cramping, exhaustion, then sometimes sloppy coordination and confusion."

"At a point when the body has lost all the water it can lose, that is, it has sweat out all available water, the brain shuts off the sweat mechanism and the body quits sweating. The condition of the body stopping sweating is heat stroke," the doctor said.

"So then there is no way to dissipate the heat. The body's temperature can go from 98.6 to 100 in about 20 minutes. At that level you bake the body," Murphy said.

"When someone suffers heat stroke, 'The only first aid is to cool the body until you can transport it to a hospital where you can get intravenous fluids.'

"Take the person's clothes off, fan them, ice them down if ice is available. If there is a cold shower or tub available, that is fine, too. The key is treatment by any means you can use to cool the body down. If you can keep the temperature under 105 degrees, the chance of recovery is 100 per cent," Murphy said.

Suited for swimming

SEASIDE SILHOUETTE — This figure flattering one-piece swimsuit bares the shoulder with thin halter straps. Two shades of pastels that stripe the bandeau bra horizontally contrast with a third marshmallow tone used in the body of the suit.

CLASSIC COBB SALAD is a hearty main dish of chunks of chicken with eggs, bacon, avocado, greens tossed with a tangy Peppy French Dressing.

Treat a classic Cobb Salad to a creative dressing

Do you ever think of the salad as your signature dish? The one so special your family requests it over and over again? A unique garnish, ingredient or dressing can make a classic recipe or simple tossed green salad distinctively yours.

The Cobb Salad, for example, an invention of a California restaurateur, traditionally combines chunky bits of chicken with greens, eggs, bacon, and avocado, served with dressing. And that's where your creative genius blooms — in the dressing.

One pleasing way to top this main dish salad is with a Peppy French dressing made with blue cheese, oil, vinegar and seasonings all brightened with Tabasco pepper sauce. Tabasco enhances almost any salad with its lively, warm taste and aroma.

Island Fruit Salad is another summer creation that's anything but ordinary with its citrus sour cream dressing made with orange concentrate, soy sauce, sugar, Tabasco and lemon juice into mayonnaise. Stir in sour cream. Spoon fruit into pineapple shells. Serve with sour cream dressing. YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

COBB SALAD
1 medium head lettuce, coarsely broken
2 cups coarsely chopped watercress leaves
3 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
1/2 pound bacon, cooked and crumbled
2 medium avocados, peeled, pitted and sliced
2 1/2 cups cut-up cooked chicken
1 tablespoon chopped chives

Combine all ingredients in bowl; mix lightly. Line large or individual salad bowls with crisp lettuce. Add salad mixture. If desired, garnish with tomato wedges. Serve with Peppy French Dressing, and, if desired, additional Tabasco.

YIELD: 4 quarts, about 6 to 8 servings.

PEPPY FRENCH DRESSING

2-3/4 cup salad oil
1-3/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup catsup
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon sugar

2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese
Combine all ingredients in jar with tight cover. Shake to mix well.

ISLAND FRUIT SALAD

1 large pineapple
3 or 4 oranges, sectioned
1 small grapefruit, sectioned
Strawberry halves
1 or 2 bananas, sliced
Melon balls, optional

2 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon sugar

1/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup sour cream

Halve pineapple lengthwise through the green top. Scoop out fruit and cut into cubes. Prepare fruit listed above or other fruit in season to total about 1 1/2 quarts. To make sour cream

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A drawn-out union strike against ABC has entered its 10th week with pickets still picketing, shows still taping and no new talks planned by the warring parties.

That's the gloomy word from ABC and Ed Lynch, head of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians — NABET — whose four-year contract with ABC expired March 31.

More than 1,500 NABET workers at ABC — mostly engineers, the rest cameramen, technicians and about 125 news personnel — walked off the job May 17 when contact negotiations collapsed.

Since then, ABC supervisors have filled in for them in news, sports and on the five daily soap operas and three game shows taped at ABC facilities here and in New York.

The network says they're also working or will work soon on taping "Welcome Back, Kotter," "Fish" and "Barney Miller" series at ABC's studios in Hollywood.

But it says three other shows that planned to use those studios moved elsewhere because of the strike — ABC's new "Soap" and "Three's Company" and the syndicated Lawrence Welk show, a 22-year customer.

Ironically, what NABET's Lynch calls the biggest item of dispute doesn't involve entertainment. It involves newsgathering by "daily hires" using the new, lightweight video cameras in the field.

Both sides say they agree on using these free-lance crews in covering news beyond a 125-mile radius of the TV stations ABC owns here and in New York, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco and its Washington bureau.

But they disagree on how many can be used. Lynch says he wants a 20 per cent limit on the use of such "daily hires" each year, while ABC says it would make the limit 50 per cent.

Lynch sees ABC's proposal as opening the doors to the use of "daily hires" everywhere by the network. An ABC spokesman emphatically denies such is the case: "That's not true, it's just untrue."

Other items of argument include work assignments, meal periods, scheduling and the right ABC seeks to suspend employees guilty of insubordination, chronic lateness or serious errors.

There also are unresolved pay and length-of-contract items: NABET seeks a two-year pact with a 25 per cent pay hike each year, ABC wants four years with an over-all raise of almost 32 per cent.

Top basic salaries under the union's expired contract set $401 a week for engineers, $386 for news writers, NABET says.

ABC says if the union members had not struck and accepted the contract offered them, its payroll for them, including normal overtime fees, would have been approximately $1 million a week.

The last NABET strike against ABC, in 1967, lasted seven weeks, according to the union, which struck NBC for that length of time last year before agreeing on a new four-year contract.

Since the ABC walkout began, both sides have met at least 20 times with a federal mediator, Nancy Fibish, in Washington, D.C., but the last powwow, on July 10, produced no breakthrough.

'Tie-hack' still swinging

LIBBY, Mont. (AP) — Up toward the sky laden with threatening gray clouds, 70-year-old Jack Stevens raised the 10 pounds of worn wood and finehoned steel. Then he whipped the ax down to bite into a western larch log.

Ten years ago, he hewed such a log into a 9-inch by 7-inch by 8-foot railroad tie in just three minutes at a logging contest in Eureka, Mont., where he now lives.

It takes him longer now.

But Stevens is one of the few professional "tie-hacks" who still can cut a railroad tie. He demonstrated his skill during Libby Logger Days here, a four-day, mid-July festival.

Railroad ties have been made in sawmills for years, and Stevens hadn't cut a tie since 1969.

"Most of the tie-hacks are too old now ... they're afraid of heart attacks," he said.

Stevens' record, set during the Depression when he was 27 years old, was 45 ties in one day. Most men cut 20 ties a day, he said.

He was paid 20 cents a tie back then. That was good money, Stevens said — better than what loggers made. Stevens usually took home about $2 for an 8-hour day, six days a week.

Stevens, wearing a dusty cowboy hat and suspended pants, said he started cutting ties when he was 8 years old. Jack Dempsey was his idol then, and Stevens said he almost took up professional boxing.

"I got married instead," he said smiling. "But I could come out of the woods and go six rounds. I was in great shape. Others could maybe go two

Heat causes adjournment

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Findlay City Council met Tuesday night, staying in session just long enough to vote to adjourn.

The air conditioning for the council chambers was broken, and the majority of council decided the heat was just too much.

However, some members apparently were a little stronger than others.

rounds after working in the woods all day."

Stevens displayed his broadax and scoring ax, the tools he uses to cut a tie. The broadax, which he bought for $2.45 in 1931, has a 13-inch biting blade. It's flat on one side and beveled on the other.

He used the eight-pound scoring ax to mark the wood and split off the sides of the log with the broadax to form the tie, which then went to Libby's new Heritage Museum for future display.

Arguments open on Kent State gymnasium site

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Arguments were to begin this morning in Portage County Common Pleas Court over whether a gym is to be located near the site which protesters are trying to preserve as a memorial to the students killed in the 1970 Kent State University shootings.

Judge Joseph Kainrad delayed construction of the $6 million gym pending today's hearing while ordering last week that protesters who had been occupying the site by living in a "Tent City" clear the area.

A total of 193 protesters defied the judge's order and were arrested peacefully July 12 by unarmed Kent State campus police. The university had asked for an order to clear the Blanket Hill site so construction could start.

William Whitaker of Akron, attorney for the May 4th Coalition which wants the gym moved to another campus site, said he would call witnesses as well as show photographs, maps and possibly a film in arguing against locating the gym near where Ohio National Guardsmen killed four students and wounded nine others during a May 4, 1970, anti-war protest.

Whitaker said he would try to show that the university failed to take into consideration the sentiments of the university community in selecting the gym site and that it may have followed improper procedures in authorizing the construction.

Stephen Parisi, special counsel for Kent State, was expected to counter with arguments that university trustees considered several sites, that the eventual choice was made public

Carter on tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, making his first tour of the South since entering the White House, is talking to regional legislators about dealings with the Soviet Union and plans to meet the citizens of Yazoo County, Miss.

Carter scheduled an early afternoon departure for a two-day journey that also will take him to an oil rig off the Louisiana coast Friday.

Before going to Yazoo City to respond to questions at a public meeting, Carter was addressing the 31st annual Southern Legislative Conference of the Council of State Governments at Charleston, S.C.

A White House official said the President chose to discuss American-Soviet relations, rather than a regionally-oriented topic, because he ahead of time and that the Blanket Hill site was the most feasible and economical in that it would be adjacent to the existing gym.

The university's position has been that, although it allowed the protesters to remain on the site for two months, any further occupation of the hill would be trespassing.

University officials say that to move the gym annex would cost an extra $750,000 and that construction companies already have signed contracts to start work.

The May 4th Coalition planned to picket the Portage County Courthouse during the hearing and organized a rally Friday on the Kent State campus. Leaders of the coalition say they may defy the judge's order not to occupy the Blanket Hill site if Kainrad rules that gym construction must start. That would set the stage for more arrests on Friday.

Meanwhile, the protesters have been busy with efforts to persuade federal officials to declare the shooting site a national historic place. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, already has asked the Department of Interior to study that possibility.

The protest leaders also met this week with White House aide Midge Costanza, who said afterwards that the "talks were informative and useful but no specific decisions were reached."

Those arrested July 12 were freed the same day after posting $25 bond and taxing the facilities at the courthouse. They were charged with contempt of court but Kainrad has not yet set a hearing date for those protesters.

Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case found a Jeffersonville man guilty of reckless operation Wednesday and fined him $100 and costs.

Originally cited March 14 by Ohio Highway Patrol troopers for driving while intoxicated, 46-year-old Richard L. Andrews of Jeffersonville also had his driver's license suspended for one year. Judge Case gave the man authorization to drive to and from work.

Andrews had pleaded not guilty to the driving while intoxicated citation and requested a trial by jury, which Judge Case had scheduled for Wednesday morning. However, before the trial began, the charge was amended to reckless operation and Andrews changed his plea to guilty to guilty on the charge.

Several waivers were also signed in the Washington C.H. Municipal Court Wednesday for traffic citations issued by the Ohio Highway Patrol. They were Robert L. Wilson, 34, Jeffersonville, $25, failure to display a slow moving vehicle emblem; Gerald D. Pardon, 19, of Doylestown, $35, speeding; Stephen E. Rich, 21, of 6515 Ohio 733-SE, $35 speeding; Robert I. Beal, 44, Columbus, $25, speeding; Roy K. Parks, 28, Lexington, Ky., $30, speeding; Benjamin A. Anfone, 39, Greenfield, $30, speeding; Ernest Dockery, 49, of Louisville, Ky., $30, speeding; Rodney B. Randle, 21, Cleveland, $30, speeding; Richard H. Colbert, 19, Norwich, $30, speeding; Randy D. Harold, 18, of Gallipolis, $35, speeding.

Business news

Local firm plans to cut business mortality rate

A new plan to cut the mortality rate among the more than 13 million small businesses through psychological testing has been announced by Harold L. Hand & Associates management consultants of Washington C.H.

The Harold L. Hand & Associates firm, located at 241 Kathryn Court, is a consulting firm for small business management problems, specializing in the study and research of business success and failures.

Hand, who heads the research project, is a former small business owner, having a vast background in the field of management consulting. Hand started his own business in the early 1940s.

In 1947 he organized a school for small business owners and taught small business clinics for several years in Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, Youngstown, Indianapolis, Ind., Fort Wayne, Ind., Wheeling, W.Va., and Flint, Mich.

Hand recently completed 12 years of service with the federal government, working as a management specialist for the Small Business Administration. He counseled and trained various types of small businesses, together with working with colleges and universities in Michigan in the development of courses and conferences suitable for small business.

He said he has long known the real problem among small businesses and why such vast numbers of them fail in the early stages.

"It is quite simple, Hand said. "He needed help before the fact, and not after the fact. Going down the drain is not a happy experience, and if one is not cut out for such a career, he should know it long before the lure of owning his own business comes to him," he said.

Following his retirement from the Small Business Administration, Hand's research efforts have dealt almost exclusively with youth, screening and counseling those that were found to have an aptitude favorable to owning and managing a small business.

FIRE RAVAGES HOME — Washington C.H. firemen, shown here checking the attic, battled a nearly two-hour blaze at 422 Lewis St. which gutted the kitchen and severely damaged several other rooms Wednesday afternoon. The fire started around 3:54 p.m. when a light over the stove short circuited and ignited flames inside the wall. An estimated $11,500 damage was done to the house and its contents.

Blaze summons 14 firefighters

TOUGH WORK — Lt. Bill Smith, of the Washington C.H. Fire Department, tries to cool off in the mid-90 degree weather during a fire at 422 Lewis St., which took over one and a half hours for 14 regular and volunteer firemen to extinguish. The flames spread inside the walls from the kitchen up to the second floor and attic before it could be brought under control. The occupant, Mrs. Joyce Coadell, was not at home when the blaze began.

Fire guts Lewis Street residence

Fire gutted the kitchen and damaged most of the other rooms of a two-story house in the 400 block of Lewis Street Wednesday afternoon, according to Washington C.H. firemen.

The blaze started around 3:54 p.m.

inside one of the kitchen walls, at 422 Lewis St. fire officials believe, when a light over the stove shorted. The fire spread through the walls up to the second floor and into the attic causing an estimated $10,000 damage to the building. Another $1,500 damage was done to Joyce Coadell's, the occupant, belongings.

Mrs. Coadell was not at home when the fire started and no injuries were reported in the blaze. Fourteen regular and volunteer firemen were needed to put out the fire. The fire report stated there were no fire stops in the walls to contain the fire, which took nearly two hours for firemen to extinguish. The building is owned by Mrs. Margine Morris of Cleveland.

Firemen also responded to a false alarm at the Fayette County Memorial Hospital around 4:25 Thursday morning. The alarm was set off by a malfunction in the hospital's alarm system, fire officials said.

Governor's energy proposal approved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Rhodes Administration energy proposal has been approved overwhelmingly by the House as majority Democrats ready their own priority bill to create a new Department of Energy.

A bill providing tax breaks to businesses that convert from natural gas to alternate fuels won 89-7 approval Wednesday and appeared to have a good chance of becoming the first major energy initiative by Gov. James A. Rhodes to pass both Houses.

It was sent to the Senate.

Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Boardman, who carried the bill for the governor, said it offered "tools so that industries and businesses in the state of Ohio can update their facilities...Energy conversion is going to be the order of business for the next five to 10 years."

The bill would exempt from sales and use taxes equipment used to convert a facility to heating oil or any fuel other than natural gas. Once a business or industry converted, it would be eligible for property tax and corporate franchise tax exemptions on the improvements.

A vote is set next week on legislation Carney methodically shepherded through his Energy and Environment Committee.

It would set in place a Department of Energy as a full-fledged cabinet-level body, replacing the existing Energy and Resource Development Agency, which was maligned by some critics for going too little during last winter's fuel shortages.

The new department would be expected to devise a fuel allocation plan, setting priorities for utilities when they are forced to curtail various classes of customers.

The legislation also calls for a tax on use or storage of more than 10 tons of coal a year, with a sliding scale formula that hits heaviest on low sulfur coal, most of which comes from outside Ohio.

Revenue from the tax, estimated by Carney at $11 million to $13 million annually, would be used to help fund the new energy agency and develop pollution abatement equipment to cleanse Ohio coal.

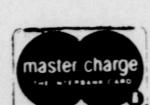

"Most of it (the tax) would be charged to utilities," Carney said.

Carney's committee also recommended passage of a Senate-approved bill intended to help homeowners insulate their residences. Sponsored by Sen. Michael Schwarzwelder, D-16 Columbus, it requires public utilities to give customers information on contractors who handle insulation work and banks that make home loans for insulation.

Capacity crowd watches outdoor drama

Weather has never cancelled show

Outdoor drama has fine rain record

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio — The vivid pageantry of Indians and painted ponies surrounded by beautiful woodlands and water is only part of what can be found at the Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre, home of the outdoor drama "Tecumseh!"

On most evenings visitors will see capacity crowds, some traveling great distances to see the epic portrayal of the life and death of the Shawnee War Chief, Tecumseh.

Despite the battle between low pressure and stationary fronts, "Tecumseh!" has never been rained out this season, according to W.L. Mundell, president of the Scioto Society, Inc., and the show's producer.

Governor Ray says GOP can rejuvenate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Iowa Gov. Robert Ray said here Wednesday he believes the Republican party can rejuvenate itself by "paying attention to people and not taking anyone for granted."

"I think most people believe in the philosophy of the party, that they believe as we believe," Ray said following a speech to several hundred women at a Women's Political Day sponsored by the Ohio Republican party.

The governor said these are hard but improving times for Republicans. "A year ago it was different. Good, young candidates didn't want to run. They said they didn't think they could win, or that it wasn't the right time. Now, more candidates are becoming available."

"I'm convinced that if the Republican party puts forth good candidates and pays attention to the people, all of them, we can win," Ray, hailed at the session as a rising star on the party's horizon, told the women they should remain active in the party because it is something they "ought to do," and added: "You can win the Ohio legislature if you are willing to do what you ought to."

Mary Crisp, national cochairman of the party, acknowledged earlier the need for rebuilding.

"Look around, there isn't much there now," she said at a press conference following her keynote speech.

director. Now in the fourth week of production "Tecumseh!" has had only two rain downs when show stopped in the last act. Usually the situation involves a "community of spirit" between actors and patrons, Mundell said. If a light rain does fall during a performance, patrons move to the rain shelter or purchase inexpensive plastic rain coats from the gift shop and remain steadfastly in their seats. The actors determinedly continue with the show, usually reaching higher levels of energy and a more vivid portrayal of their roles than on other evenings, Mundell said. This type of audience support has shown itself more than once by the standing ovations and thunderous applause at the final curtain.

The rain policy of the Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre states that shows officially cancelled prior to intermission entitle the patron to a refund by mail or a raincheck; after the first act has been completed, the patron is entitled to a rain check only. Requests for rain check reservations or refunds must be made within 14 days from the date on the ticket stub.

With the inevitable moderation of weather, the attendance record at "Tecumseh!" is again being broken for the fifth consecutive season, according to Mundell, proving it to be the fastest-growing outdoor play in the nation.

"Tecumseh!" is now playing Tuesday through Sunday at 8:30 p.m. through September 4. The overture starts at 7:55 p.m. and a reservations-only buffet is available after 5:45 p.m. each night. For information and reservations, write P.O. Box 73, Chillicothe, Ohio 45601, or call toll free from any point in Ohio 800-282-2015.

Mrs. Crisp said she believes blacks can be attracted to the party "by convincing them that there is more opportunity in our party. The emphasis is on individuality."

As for labor, she said Republicans "must create a dialogue with these people. The working man and woman are captivated by their own individuality. It is a matter of transferring that individuality into terms that the group can understand."

Mrs. Crisp told the Republican women that one person can make a difference, and urged them to get involved.

"There are four ways an individual can influence things: By the ballot, through public opinion — someone is always taking a poll, through pressure groups, and by being active in a political party," she said.

Col. James Kilbourne, who surveyed and named Bucyrus in his youth, later told how he happened to choose the name of the town, honoring his boyhood hero, the Persian general Cyrus and adding "Bu" as a prefix for "beautiful." He was so enamored of the town, one historian says, that he wrote an eight-stanza poem in praise of it.

"I'm convinced that if the Republican party puts forth good candidates and pays attention to the people, all of them, we can win," Ray, hailed at the session as a rising star on the party's horizon, told the women they should remain active in the party because it is something they "ought to do," and added: "You can win the Ohio legislature if you are willing to do what you ought to."

Mary Crisp, national cochairman of the party, acknowledged earlier the need for rebuilding.

"Look around, there isn't much there now," she said at a press conference following her keynote speech.

No injuries in four area mishaps

No injuries resulted in a two-car collision Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Armbrust Avenue and W. Elm Street, about 12:06 p.m. at the intersection of Columbus Avenue and W. Elm Street.

John F. Mick, 32, of Bainbridge, was cited by the officers after he failed to see an approaching westbound vehicle on W. Elm Street and pulled away from a stop sign on Armbrust Avenue around 5 p.m., striking the other vehicle.

The other driver, Steven K. Miller, 25, of 4214 Miami Trace Road, told police officers he was turning left onto Armbrust Avenue and thought Mick's car was going to wait. Mick was cited for failure to yield.

In two other minor traffic accidents reported by Washington C.H. police officers Wednesday afternoon, David L. Garris, 21, of 735 Fairway Drive, drove his pickup truck into the rear-end of a van, driven by Robert J. Meyer, 24, of Bladensburg, about 12:06 p.m. at the intersection of Columbus Avenue and W. Elm Street.

Garris told police officers he was stopped behind Meyer's van when the traffic signal turned green and he started up, striking the van's rear.

Charles M. Long, 31, of Ohio 41-N, backed his car into another vehicle, driven by 19-year-old Gina Upthegrove, 736 Rawlings St., when he failed to see the car in the Bonded Oil service station lot at N. North and E. Market streets about 1 p.m.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies also reported a minor accident Wednesday morning on Whiteoak Road near Ohio 38 in Bloomingburg.

Jerry D. Funk, 23, of 314 Hopkins St., was cited by the sheriff's deputies for backing without safety after he backed his truck from a parking space at the Pioneer Restaurant, 99 Main St., and struck a parked pickup truck belonging to Carl E. Holbrook, 20, of 4907 Ohio 41-N.

New bill would prevent erosion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill that would give the state authority to set standards to prevent soil erosion by farmers and developers was approved by the House Energy and Environment Committee Wednesday.

Dodgers look long gone

By WILL GRIMSLY
AP Special Correspondent

Now that the All-Star Game is pleasant history, baseball can settle down to the more significant job of contesting the second half of the season, with one question paramount: Who is going to head off Tom Lasorda's loose, supremely confident and rampaging Los Angeles Dodgers?

The Cubs and White Sox, with their fragile two-game divisional leads, conceivably could falter in their bids for an unbelievable Chicago World Series. The Baltimore Orioles still face a scramble with the talent-rich but internally troubled Yankees and the free-swinging Red Sox in the American League East.

But the doughty Dodgers, they look long gone.

In a tempestuous year of free agent wheeling and dealing, bickering among the instant millionaires, defections of superstars and general state of unrest, Manager Lasorda has hit upon a rare chemistry with the Dodgers.

The jovial, loquacious Lasorda, who succeeded the dour and professorial Walter Alston, insists he is no Houdini. He hasn't done it with mirrors. He never saw the Indian rope trick.

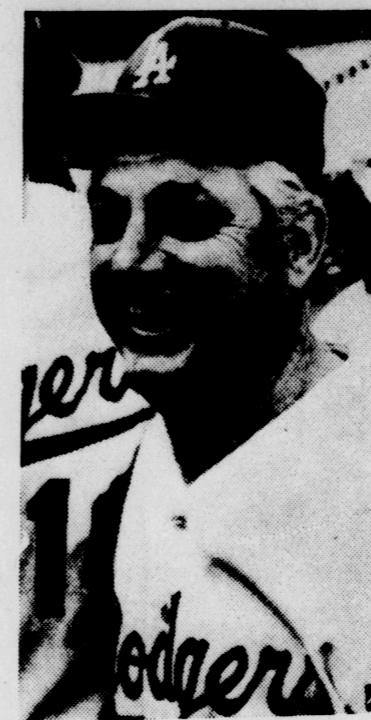

"I am just the luckiest man in the world," he said during a break in his coaching duties with the National Leaguers in the All-Star Game. "I'm a first-year manager, a beat-up third-string pitcher and son of an Italian immigrant."

"I can't hit for this team, I can't pitch and I can't field. They do it all themselves. I am just like a father sitting at the head of a large table. This is a team that is like a big, happy family."

The swarthy native of Norristown, Pa., said that when he inherited the club from the highly respected Alston, he imposed only two precepts.

"I told every player that he was No. 1, that he was somebody. I made every

Cards finally accepting rules

St. Louis takes the Rapp

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "When I was a kid," St. Louis manager Vern Rapp recalls, "my dad used to say the two cheapest commodities in the world were soap and water."

Those words have remained with Rapp over the years, much to the annoyance of the current St. Louis Cardinals. Not all of them are convinced that Rapp's father knew best.

Thanks to those long-ago words of their manager's father they are slick enough to be candidates for a shaving commercial.

Not a mustache sprouts from a Cardinal Lip. Not a beard adorns a Redbird chin. Hippie haircuts? Not on a St. Louis player.

The Cardinals' cosmetic splendor is all due to Rapp who instituted strict grooming rules and a dress code when he assumed his first major league managing post last March in spring training.

When the Cards drifted into their St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp, most of them carried happy memories of the relaxed life they had enjoyed under the deposed skipper, Red Schoendienst, a ball player's manager.

But instead of a country club atmosphere, they discovered themselves in a camp which bore more resemblance to a sweatshop. And instead of beaming Schoendienst handing out backslaps and beer, they were confronted with Rapp, a stern, irascible taskmaster.

When Rapp, whose Denver Bears had won the American Association championship in 1976, told everyone to go out and get a shave and haircut, it didn't take long for the sawdust to hit the fan.

"It was pretty close to open rebellion," one observer recalls. "Al Hrabosky (relief pitcher) was unhappy about being sent to the barber shop he threatened to file a grievance."

"Rapp called a clubhouse meeting one morning in St. Pete. The meeting lasted an hour and a half. Rapp succeeded in getting an apology out of Hrabosky. Then he suspended him for three days. The Cards were supposed to be playing in Winterhaven that afternoon and were nearly late for the game."

"That's all past history," said Rapp. "It bothers me to talk about this stuff. I think we should be talking about baseball. I'm not trying to be any totalitarian or dictator. I am simply striving for professionalism."

Rapp feels the Cardinals' dress code is reasonable. His players, for instance, are not allowed to wear jeans to home games in Busch Stadium.

"We felt we had to make some rules for the team," Rapp explained. "It might have started out a little tough, but I think the team has accepted it. Everybody has joined in."

A St. Louis sportswriter said it was difficult for the Cards to accept Rapp after playing for the affable Schoendienst. "The team was wandering around the country like a bunch of hippie mechanics, and finished 29 games out under Red in 1976," he said.

"Going from Schoendienst to Rapp was one extreme to the other. But something had to be done."

Rapp never made it big as a baseball player. He broke in with Marion of the Ohio State League in 1946. He also played for Redbird farm clubs at St. Joseph, Omaha, Columbus, Houston and Rochester. He never got to the big leagues, but he was tough.

"We played with injuries back then," he recalled. "The competition was much greater. When I broke into the Cardinal organization, there were 31 farm clubs. That meant 61 other catchers I had to beat out to get up to the parent club."

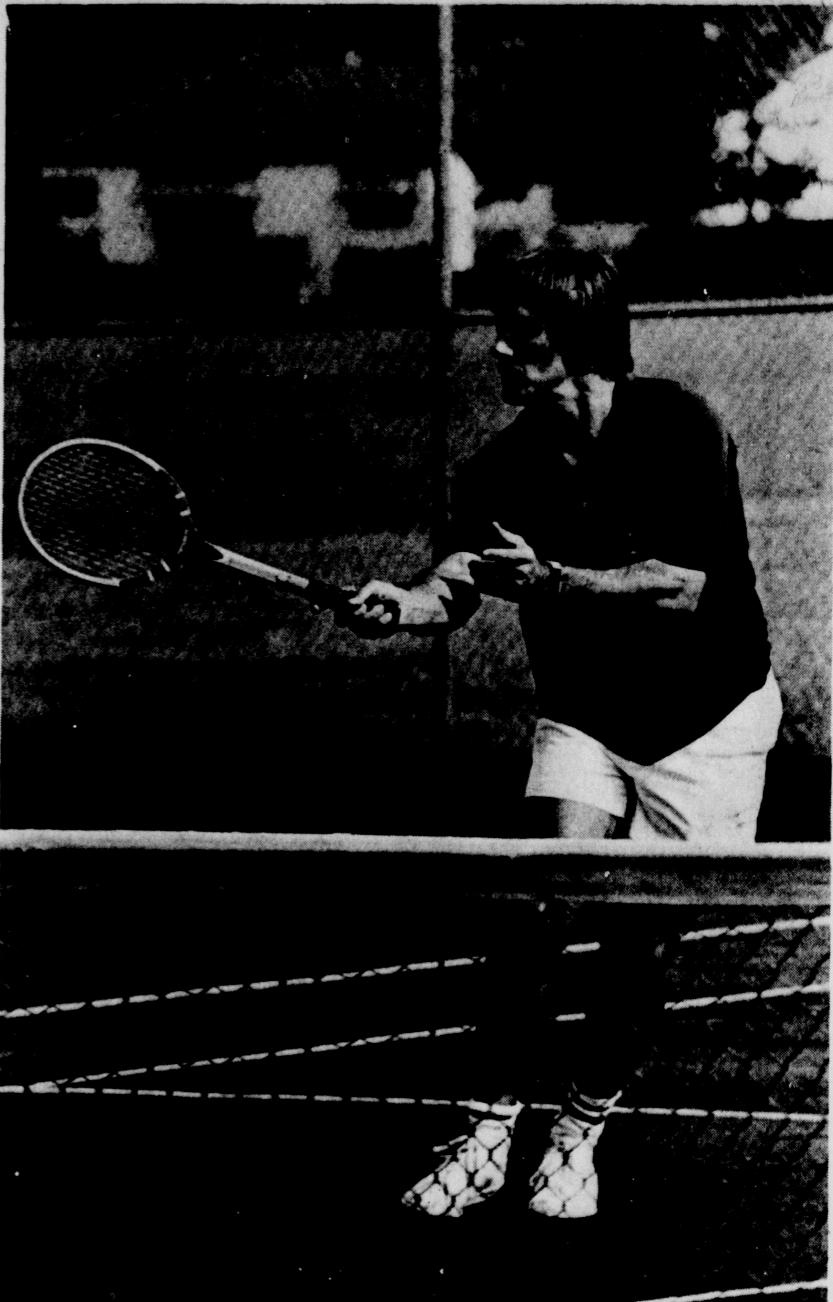

"I had a dislocated finger in 1948 at Omaha and played with it for 10 days before I finally had a so-called operation. I had just turned 20 and was looking at .300 batting average. The surgery set me back. My batting average dropped. But I finally got it back to .328, my best year ever."

guy believe in himself," he said, "then I instilled a spirit of togetherness. That's the important thing about this team—togetherness."

"I told them if you take 25 players pulling on a rope, they can drag off any team in the league. But if you have 13 going one way and 12 pulling the other, you go nowhere."

The formula has put he Dodgers 9 1/2 games ahead of the champion Cincinnati Reds.

"Reggie Smith kicked around quite a bit, never realizing what a fine talent he is," the Dodgers' skipper said. "Now he knows. Everybody thought I was out of my mind when I told Steve Garvey to start swinging for the fences. They said it was like changing God. Garvey has become a home run hitter."

BRING ON BJORN — Maurice Pfleifer is shown at the Washington Senior School tennis courts getting in some practice for this year's City Tennis Tournament. The finals in most divisions will be held Saturday at both Gardner Park and WSHS while the men's double and mixed doubles will be played on Saturday. The matches are slated to begin at 9 a.m. both days.

Local youth attends meet at Otterbein

A Fayette County girl, Susan Kile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Kile, 6874 Allen Road, near Sabina, attended one of the five Ohio Farm Bureau Federation youth conferences held recently at Otterbein College in Westerville.

Miss Kile was one of more than 500 teenagers from nearly every Ohio county to attend the conferences, according to Shirley Boyd, director of youth activities for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

The programs were planned as an education experience with simple organized recreation," said Miss Boyd.

With the theme "Farm Bureau in Action," the young people participated in a mock House of Representatives to demonstrate how state government works and introduced simulated bills which were moved through the legislative process. Through the conferences, the participants were taught how democratic procedures are used in developing policy for the Ohio Farm Bureau.

Each session of the conference also featured classes in safety, public speaking, group singing and square dancing. In addition, the youths organized a cooperative refreshment store, elected a board of directors and bought stock in the cooperative.

In other Farm Bureau activities, the Farm Bureau youth committee met recently to formulate policies to be presented for a vote by the Fayette County membership at the organization's annual meeting scheduled for September in the Mahan Building at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Committee Chairman, Laural Montgomery did not attend the policy meeting due to an illness and Barton Montgomery served as temporary chairman. Others present at the meeting included Pat Lerrick, Farm Bureau organization director, and committee members Jim Paisley, Raymond Rodgers, Mrs. Charles Hiser, Mrs. Ford Wilson, Mrs. Dwight Duff, Dale Ritenour and Jim Hobbs.

Forestry rules hearing scheduled on August 15

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Division of Forestry of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources will conduct a public hearing Monday, August 15, in Columbus on proposed rules concerning use of state forest lands.

The hearing will begin at 10 a.m., August 15, in the first floor conference room of Building C at the department's Fountain Square office complex in northeastern Columbus.

Among the proposed rules is one which would extend the hours forests are open during the spring and summer months. Under the existing rule, forests close at dark to all except campers and those legally hunting and fishing.

The new rule would permit the general public to be in the forests until 10:30 p.m. and again at 6 a.m. from April 1 to October 31. During the period November 1 to March 31, forests would close from 8:30 p.m. to 8 a.m.

OTHER proposed rules include ones which would:

- permit the installation of portable deer stands during the deer hunting season provided the stands are installed without driving nails or other devices into a tree and that the stands are removed within 24 hours after being used;

- permit rock climbing and rappelling in designated areas only;

- require the permission of the forestry division chief to take off or land any airplane, balloon, glider or other aerial apparatus within a state forest;

— require that persons using campsites in a horseman's campground have a horse at the campground or be in a party that has a horse or horses at the campground;

— require that house trailers, travel trailers and camping trailers have suitable holding tanks for toilets and wastewater so the contents can be transported by the occupant and disposed of off state forest land;

— set a fee of $2.50 per night per campsite on state forests, except for holders of Golden Buckeye Cards for ages 65 and older who would pay $1.25;

— restrict backpack camping groups to a maximum of 10 persons per party at any one backpack campground except as approved by the forestry division; and

— limit parked vehicles in forest areas during the night hours to those belonging to campers and individuals engaged in legal hunting and fishing.

Other proposed rules would amend several existing forestry regulations to correct outdated terminology.

Copies of the proposed rules are available from the Division of Forestry, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Building C, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio is about to embark on an experiment that could lead to savings of up to $124 million a year in Medicaid (indigent health care) costs, say the Senate sponsors of the enabling legislation.

Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said Wednesday, as his bill received 33-0 approval, that it could become "landmark" legislation copied by other states also reeling under skyrocketing health care costs.

Under the bill, which went to the House for expected approval, the welfare department would undertake experimental programs that would move many patients out of hospitals, where costs average about $200 a day, and place them in skilled or other types of nursing homes which can adequately provide the level of care needed, at $45 a day, or less.

Meshel said there is evidence that many Medicaid patients now confined to hospitals actually don't need 24-hour, skilled professional care.

Under the bill, which carries a $500,000 appropriation, the welfare department could make grants or enter into contracts for small scale demonstration projects to investigate and evaluate quality of care and cost containment solutions.

State agency rules and regulations would be waived if it were shown they interfered with the purpose of the demonstration, and department officials could request waiver of restrictive rules of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Four rail cars derail

Four cars on a Chessie System train derailed Tuesday night, according to Washington C.H. Police Department reports, along the 100 block of W. Paint Street.

No one was injured when the cars jumped the track, according to police department investigators who reported the track switch had been thrown apparently by trespassers around 11 p.m. Ernest Meadows of Wellston, a Chessie System employee, told police officers the lock on the switch was found in the locked position, but the switch lever had been thrown to the opposite latch.

The police department report, which listed the vandalism act as criminal mischief, stated the switch was thrown either while the train was in motion or after it had stopped at the location.
